BUSAPEST

The city of Budapest, capital of Hungary, located on the Danube River, consists of two separate centers: Buda on the west bank and Pest on the east bank, which in 1872 united into a single administrative unit. The origins of the town go back to the Roman period when the legions of the future Emperor Augustus conquered the western part of present-day Hungary in the year 35 and transformed it into a Roman province named Pannonia.

Countless monuments and historical buildings are waiting to be discovered by you! In the medieval Citadel, the Royal Castle and the Matthias Church are located, and in the city park is Heroes' Square (Heldenplatz). Today, the most famous monument in Budapest is the Parliament on the banks of the Danube. From the hill, you have a fantastic view, with an incredible collection of palaces, churches, and monuments that have been declared a World Heritage Site by UNESCO.

Hungary has an important musical tradition and has made many contributions to the fields of folk, popular, and classical music. For example, Béla Bartók and Zoltán Kodály, two of Hungary's most famous composers, are known for incorporating folk themes into their music.

Zoltan Kodály's unique method for musical education has been adapted to different cultures worldwide. Kodály was a pioneer in establishing a multidisciplinary dialogue between musicology, philosophy, sociology, and education. The practice and theory he had established were a powerful response to the prevailing social problems and needs of his time. As a musician and educator, he devoted himself to the popularization of community music and choral singing, striving to build a better society.
