ANDALUSIA

Andalucía is a region rich in culture, history, festivities, nature, and outstanding gastronomy. You can visit awe-inspiring monuments, explore a natural environment full of contrasts, experience unique local celebrations, and savor delicious products.

To immerse yourself in Andalusian culture, you can explore its UNESCO World Heritage sites, such as the Alhambra, Generalife, and Albaicín in Granada, the historic center with the Mosque in Córdoba, the Cathedral, Alcázar, and Archivo de Indias in Seville, and the monumental towns of Úbeda and Baeza in Jaén. You will also enjoy vibrant festivals like Semana Santa, the Carnival of Cádiz, the Rocío in Huelva, and the Feria de Abril in Seville.

The natural landscapes in Andalucía are diverse, ranging from the beaches of the Costa del Sol, Costa de la Luz, and Almería to the vast olive groves in Jaén. Explore the Doñana National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage site, or even ski in the Sierra Nevada resort during winter.

Lastly, Andalucía offers an unparalleled gastronomic experience, with wines from Jerez (Cádiz) and Montilla-Moriles (Córdoba), fried fish from Cádiz and Málaga, hams from Huelva and Córdoba, olive oil, and iconic dishes such as gazpacho and salmorejo.
