The Republic of San Marino

The Republic of San Marino, with an area of only 61 km², is situated between the Italian regions of Romagna and Marche, just a few kilometers from the Adriatic Sea coast.

According to legend, San Marino was founded in the year 301 AD by the Dalmatian stonecutter Marino. He came here to hide from the Roman Emperor Diocletian during the period of Christian persecution. Since then, this small state has taken pride in its freedom and has been able to consistently defend its independence in the past.

The Republic of San Marino is not only one of the smallest states in the world, but it is also the oldest. On July 7, 2008, the Republic of San Marino received exceptional recognition from the UNESCO Committee for its unique history and institutional heritage: inclusion in the prestigious World Heritage List.
